

BUSINESS OVER BREAKFAST

GUEST SPEAKER

Lance Hockridge Managing Director and CEO of QR National

Selling QR National: What it means for economic growth

The sale of QR National is one of the biggest market offerings in recent times. As Australia's largest rail freight company, it is integral to national transport infrastructure and supply chains for the nation's resource sector. When QR National is privatised, the Queensland and Australian economies stand to benefit significantly from increased capital investment and a boost to productivity and growth.

Lance Hockridge joined QR Limited as CEO in November 2007 with more than 30 years' experience in transportation and heavy industrial sectors in Australia and the United States. He has an outstanding record of achievement in senior operational, manufacturing and human resource roles.

Lance had a long and successful career with BlueScope Steel, that began with BHP nearly 30 years ago and continued through his membership of the executive leadership team that led BlueScope Steel's successful demerger and the creation of a new, publicly listed company.

In March 2005, Lance was appointed President of BlueScope Steel's North American operations. He was responsible for leading the major turnaround in safety, production and financial performances at the BlueScope North American operations.

His roles at BHP included Human Resources and Industrial Relations, General Manager of BHP Transport, head of BHP's Long Products business and President Industrial Markets responsible for Port Kembla's steelmaking operation and New Zealand Steel.
